installing you can also get a key from Microsoft, just pass validation on your vista, win 7 and win 8. A: I've had this a few times, and the answer is to locate the WGA.exe file in the installation directory for the program you wish to install. Then use a regular batch file such as this one (caveat: untested, and you'll need to modify the paths to suit your installation location):

@echo off for /f

"tokens=*" %i in ('dir
/b/s/b "c:\path\to\files\WGA
A.exe") do (
C:\path\to\files\setup.exe /q /log="c:\path\to\log\log.
txt" "c:\path\to\installation\ directory\installer.exe"
"%1" %* )

The idea is to loop over all of the folder locations for the WGA.exe file then launch a second batch file from the first to run the installer, with all of the arguments from the first batch file available to the second. Q: How to use Javascript to call/open/close the new tab using anchor tag or button? I have following javascript function to open the new tab using anchor tag. But there are couple of problems. function openNewTab(functionName){
