(i am not sure about language packs for portuguese or russian) a: from a quick search, it looks like the cldr project might be able to help you. that said, i'm not sure what you mean by "translate from persian/arabic into portuguese" as it sounds like you want to translate persian/arabic into english and portuguese. in that case, i suggest you use a free online tool like babel fish to try out the translation. and, if you have the time, i suggest you download the cldr babel fish database and use it to experiment with a large number of languages. a: if you like cldr and have an ubuntu version, you can use the cldr dictionaries: sudo apt install clocale-genpo clocale-inmo clocale-tran clocale-po this will install all the data files for all supported languages.
